Chamber of Commerce Will Stage 'Buck Stew'

Bright Future in Sight For Progressive Richmond

At the Chamber of Commerce luncheon Wednesday noon at Martin's Grill, a number of good things were discussed for the advancement of Richmond, and many suggestions were made along the lines of making the chamber successful by stiffening its financial support.

H. A. Johnston submitted some important information on this subject, and if carried out as suggested by the speaker, Richmond will be classed among the leaders for its substantial growth and for having citizens who give generously of their means to increase the city's attractiveness for the homeseeker and the factory.

C. C. Kratzer acted as chairman, and was highly complimented for his ability as a presiding officer. He did so well that the members present tendered him a vote of thanks, with the promise of "steady work."

Secretary Wallace and Assistant Secretary Ogborn submitted their reports as delegates to the Sacramento convention.

There were 122 representatives from various chambers of the state present at the meeting. There will be another meeting at Santa Cruz Oct. 23, and Nov. 16 Richmond will be favored.

Secretary Wallace enthused the convention with his description of Richmond, and the visitors will be given an industrial tour of the city when they come, which will be a big adv. for Richmond.

Assistant Postmaster R. H. Kinney gave out some postoffice statistics and urged the patronage of the local postoffice, especially in purchasing stamps, which will put Richmond in the first-class column and raise the salaries of the postoffice employes. A number of the large industries are purchasing more stamps here now than formerly, and it will only be a matter of a little while until Richmond will make a good showing, and the federal building will materialize.

C. E. Downing, the Point Richmond banker, in speaking of the Pt. Richmond Commercial Club, said the club would be ready to co-operate on anything for the advancement of the city on a few minutes' notice; that they were not dead over there, not even sleeping, and could "start something" quickly if it was urgent and required of them. Mr. Downing received an encore for his humorous reference to Pt. Richmond being wrongly accused and misrepresented as apathetic and dormant. He said: "When you're in trouble or need assistance, just blow a horn and we will come out of our holes on the side-hills like squirrels, and there will be something doing."

The chamber is in accord with the harbor bond movement, all members wearing the little white insignia: "I am for the Bonds."

Fred LaMoine is a fast worker in C. of C. matters. Fred made a motion, seconded it, and it was carried by his exclusive vote before the other members had a "chance." It was for the "good of the city," and got by OK.

Secretary Wallace is doing excellent work in showing visitors around the city, giving them data and statistics. He will place a number of industrial plants if given continued support and encouragement. Mrs. Ogborn, his assistant, is a valuable help to Mr. Wallace. He now has an opportunity to do outside work and show visitors the city's resources.

It is admitted by the directors that newspaper publicity put the "big year over," and that in 1921 the campaign of newspaper publicity will be carried out on an immense scale.

Hon. C. F. Curry to Speak on Harbor Bonds

Congressman Charles F. Curry will speak in Richmond on harbor improvements, the date to be set by the committee.

Congressman Curry is one of the influential members of Congress, and was the choice at Washington for the vice-presidency, but positively refused, because he would rather serve his own people here in California to whom he is dearly attached and whose interests he has at heart.

All should hear Congressman Curry's address. He will submit sound logic on harbor improvements which every citizen and property owner should hear in order to vote intelligently on the $400,000 harbor bonds Sept. 28.

Employes' Wage Are Advanced at Pullman

Supt. F. E. Beck has been notified from the company's headquarters that all employes of the shops here will receive an advance in wages retroactive to August 1.

The increase of scale varies from 18 to 28 per cent. The minimum wage for mechanics will be 85c per hour, helpers 62c per hour. This is good news to the employes, and shows that the policy of the Pullman company is in line with that of the government when the latter gave the Pullman employes living wages in war times.

SIR OLIVER LODGE MAY KNOW.

Mary and Annie are two delightful old Irish cleaning women in a little Western town. One day, on her cleaning rounds, Annie chanced upon a group of women discussing the newly awakened interest in spiritualism. Her pail and mop were quite forgotten in her eagerness to add her little bit to the conversation.

"Sure, Mary and I have been noticin' that, too, now," she said. "But if thim ghosts is really appearin', phwat we can't understand is why some of thim aviathors hasn't run into thim."

Shortcut via Franklin Canyon Route to State Capital

It is said the State Automobile association has recommended the Franklin canyon route as the most convenient and quickest to Sacramento, and that when this stretch of highway is completed the Martinez-Benicia ferry line will get the bulk of the business in the way of motor travel to the state capital. This will give Martinez a prominent place on the road map, and tourists and others will have an opportunity to see some of the best country in California.

Workers Salvage Beer From Hold of Old Steamer

More than ten years ago the steamer Corona was wrecked at the entrance of Eureka harbor. Wreckers are now salvaging the cargo, some of which is in good condition. Among many consignments of merchandise, hardware, crockery, etc., found in good condition, were 200 kegs of beer, which is said to be of excellent quality, age having added to its flavor and also to its "kick."

POLITICAL NOTES and General Comment

Let us not forget the solemn truth that no man of a three-letter name has ever been elected President of the United States.—Ashville Times.

Printers, at least, will appreciate the fact that in setting up Senator Harding's speech of acceptance they did not run out of upper case "1's."

"We are very proud of our form of government. We believe that there is no nation on earth that gives to the individual the rights and privileges that he has in America. The time has come now when we are going to defend these rights."—Calvin Coolidge.

Senator Harding is strong on good advice. He says to labor to put zest and zeal in its efforts to increase productiveness and decrease the high cost of living. Babe Ruth, the home-runner, is set up as an example of determination to excel and do things. Yes, Babe is a swell batter, but who knows but what he "frames" with the pitchers?

Some of the flags on certain buildings in Richmond have become tattered and torn from long service. This does not always imply that the owner is unpatriotic or disrespectful to the best emblem there is—he's just unthoughtful, negligent.

Labor Day parade in Brooklyn had 30,000 marchers. There were 6000 B. R. T. strikers in line, 2000 appearing in their military uniforms which they were when they fought the Hun, overseas for "freedom." Hundreds of the paraders wore their war medals for bravery, badges, service stripes and other naval and military insignia.

Publicity and advertising agents have found a new one. It is the special delivery letter containing "News—Rush." The country boob weeklies are easy, say some of the 12th-story attic publicity propagandists, but in looking over our exchanges we have failed to observe a verification of this statement. Pin a check to your "News Rushes," and notice the "conciliating effect."

Modesto Is Sore, Like Us, on Census Report

Modesto is dissatisfied with the census bureau's report, which gives that prosperous city 9241 population. Although the percentage increase is 130, Modesto claims 15,000, and says their schools are accommodating 3000 children.

'Pop' Anson's Second Baseman Closes Chicago Joint

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—Fred Pfeffer, who was a decade ago second on White Stockings, has closed his alley saloon in the rear of McVicker's theatre, selling the fixtures for $1.50 (one dollar and fifty cents.) Pfeffer sold a brand of whiskey labeled "Billy Sunday." Sunday played ball with Pfeffer on Anson's team, and joined the latter baseball magnate at Marshalltown in amateur days in the 70's, Sunday coming from Nevada Iowa, near Marshalltown.

Berkeley's Tax Rate

The board of supervisors Tuesday fixed the tax rate of Berkeley at $3.00, Supervisor Redmond C. Staats says $2.13 of this goes to the schools. Berkeley school teachers will be granted an annual increase of $3.00 each, tallying with the pay of Oakland teachers.

The census bureau gives Reno 12,016 population.

McAdoo and Bryan Opposed to Beer and Wine

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—The Sun and Herald says that if Governor Cox and his Tammany supporters have an idea they can wink at the 18th amendment and get away with it they have forgotten to reckon William G. McAdoo, former secretary of the treasury and near nominee for the democratic presidential nomination.

McAdoo says he does not stand for Cox's pussyfooting campaign methods on the prohibition issue. KcAdoo also states that he does not recall that either Harding or Cox have declared their views on the wet and dry questions since their nominations.

McAdoo joins hands with William Jenning Bryan and warns the country against electing a congress which would restore the breweries and wineries to political power and re-establish the debasing and immoral liquor traffic.

Further he cautioned favoring the country against "a favoring President" on the beer and light wine proposition.

This brings two of the leading figures of the democratic party in clean cut opposition to the silent campaign by which the democrats are seeking to win the support of

Jazz Specialist Arrives in N.Y.; Is Song Writer, Too

Art Hickman, San Francisco jazz specialist, is now playing with his orchestra on Ziegfield's roof garden, New York. Hickman is attaining more fame as a song writer, and landed in New York with a a loud bang. ADMISSION DAY IN SAN FRANCISCO

California Native Sons and Daughters in Parade With Flower-Decked Cars

San Francisco.—Mother California has a big family. For two hours Thursday morning, September 9, her sons and daughters, her grandsons and granddaughters, filled Market street with a pageant of kaleidoscopic brilliancy, bands and floats and drill teams and flower-bedecked automobiles and thousands upon thousands of marching men and women, assembled to celebrate the birthday of the mother State.

While massed crowds, all the way from the Embarcadero to the Civic Center, filled the sidewalks and every convenient window and building ledge to watch the procession, delegations from 105 parlors of the Native Sons of the Golden West and Native Daughters of the Golden West, with all the accompaniments of floats and bands, marched up the flag-decorated street. The Army and Navy, the Police and Fire Department, Boy Scouts, League of the Cross Cadets, California Grays, Independent Rifles and other organizations likewise took part in the celebration.

From Stephen Richardson of Mt. Tamalpais Parlor, 89 years of age, and the oldest member of the Native Sons, to the wee mite clad in red, white and blue, who rode in the blossom-covered chariot of Pacific Parlor, the parade was an almost unanimous representation of California-born men and women. The glowing orange of the California poppy was the prevalent color in costumes and decorations, and the California sun that came out especially for the occasion, after days of gray fog, had plenty of gay hues on which his rays might rest. White-garbed marchers, uniformed drill teams, flower-decorated floats in which rode pretty girls in dainty costumes—it was a real California parade.

A platoon of Californians from the mounted police heralded the approach of the procession. Behind them came Grand Marshal Hubert B. Scudder and his aids, and automobiles in which rode Admiral J. M. Jayne, U. S. N.; Colonel Edward Wittenmeyer, U. S. A.; Mayor John L. Davie of Oakland, Mayor Louis J. Bartlett of Berkeley, officials and speakers of the day, grand officers of the Native Sons and Native Daughters, San Francisco Supervisors, and representatives

Then marched the companies of soldiers in their olive-drab and the sailors in blue, the League of the Cross Cadets, the California Grays in their dress uniforms and performing snappy evolutions in the line of march, Junior Naval Reserves and the San Francisco Fire Department, led by the historic old hosewagon, bought by Pennsylvania Hose Company No. 12 of San Francisco in 1850, later sold to Nevada City and recently presented to the San Francisco Veteran Firemen's Association by the Nevada City company, that owned it since 1860.

The clumsy old four-wheeler was shipped around the Horn in 1850 and was used by the Pennsylvania Hose Company for ten years, when it was sold to Nevada City. Rather than change the metal plate bearing the inscription "Pennsylvania," Eagle Hose Company of Nevada City changed its name to Pennsylvania Company. The vehicle was in use in Nevada City until the early '80s, and since then has been stored in the basement of the firehouse. Recently its existence was brought to light, and the relic was returned to the city where it was first used.

A delegation of veteran firemen, clad in the red shirts of the old-time Fire Department, pulled the historic hosewagon, followed by the Fire Department Band, marching firemen and the modern apparatus.

California Parlor, No. 1, led the long line of Native Sons and Daughters. Men and women of the organization were dressed in white, the women wearing vivid yellow smocks and big yellow hats.

Sonoma county parlors entered a float covered with evergreens, on which rode a group of men and women in the costumes of pioneer days, tossing Sonoma county apples to the crowds on the sidewalk. A big delegation of marching Native Sons and Daughters also represented Sonoma county.

The Nationals' Band, in their gay Arab costumes of red and yellow, were next in line, followed by members of other parlors, and the orange and green covered float of Guadalupe Parlor, on which rode a group of pretty girls in white, with big yellow hats.

White-garbed men from Twin Peaks Parlor, and girls in fluffy, orange-colored dresses, with orange parasols, made an attractive appearance in line. From Golden Gate Parlor came a delegation of Native Daughters dressed in white, with brilliantly hued scarfs and parasols to give a note of color.

Vivid orange coats and caps worn by the white-clad girls from Joaquin Parlor, Native Daughters, made this parade entry a pretty one.

Departing from the favorite shades of yellow, the women from Gabrielle Parlor, Native Daughters, marching with men from Rincon Parlor, Native Sons, wore bright pink coats with their white skirts. Another delegation of girls was gowned in shades of pink, green, yellow and blue, giving a rainbow effect.

Half a dozen happy-faced youngsters riding in a flower-covered automobile, represented the homeless children for whom the Native Sons and the Native Daughters are doing such a splendid work. Hundreds of little orphans have been given happy homes through the efforts of the organizations and the parade entry recalled this.

Pacific Parlor had an elaborate entry in its floral chariot, drawn by white-uniformed men and solidly covered with flowers in many colors. A tiny girl in costume of red, white and blue rode in the float.

Blue capes and caps worn by the women of Golden Gate Parlor, Native Daughters, made a variety in the color tones of the parade.

Red flowers on a background of green covered the automobile in which rode a delegation of Sacramento women, followed by members of Sacramento Parlors and Orinda Parlor girls in daintily colored smocks.

Las Lomas Parlor, Native Daughters, had an unusually beautiful entry, a floral arch of pink and white bearing the parlor name worked out in pink flowers and carried by girls dressed in white, with pink hats and carrying baskets of pink flowers.

Portola Parlor, Native Daughters, had a decorated automobile and a group of well-trained marchers.

A big golden bear rode on the front of the flower-covered automobile entered by parlors of Contra Costa county, and a troop of Boy Scouts from Redwood City carried a banner inscribed "Dad and I Are Native Sons."

Palo Alto Parlor had a clever entry in which men in dominoes of red, white, yellow and blue carried huge gilded letters, the initials of the order, N. S. G. W.

Mission drum corps, with poppy-wreathed drums, led the delegates from San Jose, who carried a white and gold canopy, under which was a model of the building that San Jose Parlor plans to occupy before long. Pretty girls in a flower-decorated automobile also represented San Jose.

Riding in state in an automobile covered with flowers and flags was Stephen Richardson of Mount Tamalpais Parlor, the oldest member of the order, with his 89 years.

Piedmont sent a red-uniformed band and a drill team of pretty young women in natty red and white uniforms, whose brisk marching was much applauded. Oakland Parlor entered a float decorated in orange and white, and Bahia Vista Parlor, Native Daughters, had an elaborate float with an orange-clad Native

Brooklyn Parlor, Native Daughters, entered a float on which rode a group of the members carrying brilliantly colored parasols.

Aloha Parlor's drill team of young women made a splendid appearance in white uniforms, with picturesque capes and yellow-plumed hats.

Bear Flag Parlor, Native Daughters, had decorated its float in blue and orange. Berkeley Parlor, Native Sons, appropriately garbed its marching men in caps and gowns, with diplomas in hand.

A flag that had served overseas was the central feature of the entry from Claremont Parlor. The flag floated over a decorated automobile in which rode a soldier, a sailor, a Red Cross nurse and a Salvation Army lass.

From Fruitvale Parlor, Native Daughters, came the girls in orange costumes with quaint little black lace hoopskirts and black and orange poke bonnets.

Bay City Parlor's band departed from the usual band costume by wearing white trousers and bright blue shirts. Bay City Parlor also entered a flower-decorated automobile filled with laughing children.

A tiny green-clad drum major led the delegation from Niantic Parlor, followed by a group of children dressed in green and girls in white with green parasols.

Keith Parlor's attractively decorated automobile was surrounded by a group of girls, holding the ends of floral streamers.

The drill team from National Parlor proved that it could not only march, but execute well-timed maneuvers as it did so.

Castro Parlor, Native Daughters, was represented by its drill team in uniforms of purple and white.

Members of the Past Presidents' Association, Native Daughters, rode in an elaborately decorated automobile.

A ripple of applause all along the line of march announced the approach of the white uniformed drum corps of young women drummers, who displayed all the tricks of veteran performers.

Marshall Parlor recalled pioneer days with its entry of an old Wells Fargo stage coach, battered and worn with many trips over rough roads, and manned by a red-shirted delegation of Marshallites who punctuated the atmosphere with occasional fusillades.

Girls in pink dresses represented Dolores Parlor, Native Daughters, and young women in white and yellow, members of Darina Parlor, rode in a big sightseeing car covered with flowers.

Nearly every city represented sent a band or a drum corps in addition to the Army and Navy bands, and the band from the Fire Department.

Following is a list of parlors of both organizations represented in the parade:

BABY KILLED IN FALL DOWN ELEVATOR SHAFT

Victim's Mother Learns of Tragedy After Several Hours

San Francisco.—Paul Guio, eleven-month old child of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Guio, 910 Oak street, Oakland, was instantly killed September 9 when the sudden starting of an elevator into which he was being wheeled caused him to be thrown into the shaft and fall four stories to the cement basement.

The child had been left with his sixteen-year-old aunt, Blossom Guio, who was starting to take him for an airing. The girl ran to the basement, and when she saw the shattered body she became hysterical and then lapsed into unconsciousness from which she had not recovered late Thursday night.

The baby's mother was in San Francisco, and it was not until several hours after the accident that she returned home to learn of the tragedy. The father knew of the accident shortly after it happened, and the death of his child, the condition of his niece and the inability to find his wife combined to bring him close to a mental breakdown.

The child-aunt lived in the Madison Park apartments, Madison and Tenth streets, Oakland, and late in the afternoon placed the baby in its carriage and wheeled it into the elevator. The youngster rode in his baby carriage from the fourth floor apartment to the elevator door. Miss Guio was wheeling the carriage into the elevator, when without warning the car started upward.

The front wheels of the baby carriage were lifted and then dropped suddenly. Before Miss Guio could seize the child little Paul was hurled through the open door of the shaft into the space under the ascending car.

Richard Boehme, operator of the elevator, was arrested by Police Detective Richard McSorley and held on a technical charge of manslaughter. He was later released on his own recognizance.

San Francisco.—Leonard Wilbur, thirteen-year-old son of Supreme Justice Curtis Wilbur, while riding a bicycle at Fell and Shrader streets was struck by an automobile driven by Thomas Lane, 3661 Sixteenth street. He was treated at the Park Emergency Hospital for lacerations of the scalp. The police considered the case accidental and no arrest was made. The Wilbur family lives at 241 Frederick street.

Mrs. Kahn screamed and ran toward her home when the two men, each masked and each armed with a revolver, stepped from the shadows and commanded them to throw up their hands. She was allowed to flee, the robbers devoting their attention to her husband.

San Francisco.—Clarence de Bernardi, son of the late David de Bernardi, founder of the importing firm of D. de Bernardi & Co. of San Francisco, appeared in Police Court at Oakland Tuesday, September 7, to answer accusations made by Mrs. Hattie F. Carroll of Oakland that De Bernardi was annoying her niece, Miss Bernice Jones, an Oakland nurse, 18 years old. He was dismissed. De Bernardi, a marine engineer, was sued for divorce a month ago. The De Bernardi home is at 2115 Pacific avenue, Oakland.

Auburn.—J. T. Zerling of Oakland was shot and seriously injured while out deer hunting near Forest Hill September 8. He is in such a precarious condition that it is hard to learn just how it happened. The bullet entered his back and went through the lung. It is not known whether the wound was from a spent bullet or from his own gun, which may have been knocked off his shoulder by the brush. George Johnson of Oakland and O. F. Kefler of Alameda were hunting with him, but some distance away. Zerling is twenty years of age and is a son-in-law of R. C. Hughes of Forest Hill.

San Francisco.—The California State Spiritualists Association closed a five-day session at the Civic Auditorium Saturday evening, September 4. The following were elected officers for the coming year: H. C. W. Johnson, president; S. S. Quackenbush, vice president; Mrs. Sadie Herrick, secretary; Wm. Jones, treasurer; Wm. Shelby, L. M. Norris, Mrs. Salo Smith, Eleanor Collar, Grace Roberts, directors; Carrie B. May, state superintendent of lyceums, and Harrold P. Courtney, national representative. The session of 1921 will be held in the Roberts Temple, San Jose.

Just Folks

"IT'S A BOY."

The doctor leads a busy life, he wages war with death
Long hours he spends to help the one who's fighting hard for breath.
He cannot call his time his own, nor share in others' fun,
His duties claim him through the night
when others' work is done,
And yet the doctor seems to be God's messenger of joy,
Appointed to announce this news of gladness: "It's a boy!"

In many ways unpleasant is the doctor's round of cares,
I should not like to have to bear the burdens that he bears,
His eyes must look on horrors grim,
unmoved he must remain,
Emotion he must master if he hopes to conquer pain,
Yet to his lot this duty falls, his voice
he must employ
To speak to man the happiest phrase
that's sounded, "It's a boy!"

I wish 'twere given me to speak a message half so glad
As that the doctor brings unto the fear-distracted dad.
I wish that simple words of mine could change the skies to blue
And lift the care from troubled hearts,
as those he utters do.
I wish that I could banish all the thoughts that man annoy
And cheer him as the doctor does, who whispers: "It's a boy."

Whoever through the hours of night has stood outside her door
And wondered if she'd smile again;
whoe'er has paced the floor
And lived those years of fearful thoughts, and then been swept from woe,
Up to the topmost height of bliss
that's given men to know,
Will tell you there's no phrase so sweet, so charged with human joy
As that the doctor brings from God
—that message: "It's a boy!"

Mother's Cook Book

September strews the woodlands o'er
With many a brilliant color;
The world is brighter than before.—
Why should our hearts be duller?
Sorrow and the scarlet leaf,
Sad thoughts and sunny weather!
Ah me! this glory and this grief

Food for the Family.

A bran bread which is wholesome and easily made is a recipe which should be found in all households. The following is a good one:

Bran Bread.

Take one pint each of flour and bran, one cupful of buttermilk, or sweet milk will do, a teaspoonful of soda, a half teaspoonful of salt, three tablespoonfuls of molasses. Mix and bake one hour to one hour and a quarter.

Graham Popovers.

Take one cupful each of graham flour and white flour, one cupful each of milk and water, a teaspoonful of sugar and a half teaspoonful of salt. Beat the flour and the milk together then add the water and other ingredients, beat well with an egg beater, pour into hot gem pans and bake in a hot oven. These are light as a feather.

Prune Bread.

Wash a cupful of prunes and soak over night in water to cover. In the morning remove the pits and chop the prunes, add one quart of flour, one pint of graham flour, a teaspoonful of salt, a tablespoonful of sugar, one yeast cake dissolved in lukewarm water and enough warm milk to make a soft dough. Allow it to rise, stir briskly, put into a well buttered bread pan. Let rise again and bake in a moderate oven. This is a very healthful bread and one the children like.

Eggs in Baskets With Bacon.

Separate the whites and yolks of as many eggs as desired, being careful not to break the yolks. Beat the whites until stiff enough to stand. Turn into a buttered baking dish, make small depressions for the yolks and carefully drop them in. Dot with butter, sprinkle with salt and bake a medium brown. Serve garnished with crisp, fried bacon.

Cabbage and Apple Salad.

Chop together one cabbage head, four tart apples, season well with salt and cayenne and mix with a good mayonnaise dressing. Serve at once.

Thousand Island Dressing.

Take one cupful of mayonnaise dressing, one cupful of whipped cream, one-half cupful of chili sauce or catsup, two tablespoonfuls of minced red pepper, one tablespoonful of chopped cucumber, one tablespoonful of Worchestershire sauce. Mix in the order given and serve at once.

Pecan Pralines.

Boil together one pound of brown sugar, one tablespoonful of butter, and four tablespoonfuls of water; when the mixture begins to boil add one-half pound of pecans, when it begins to bubble, remove from the heat and drop by spoonfuls on buttered dish or marble slab. Stir constantly while cooking.

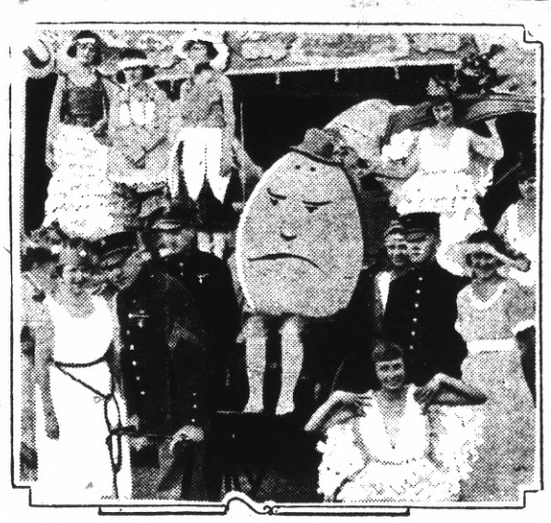
BAD HUMPTY ESCORTED FROM HEN METROPOLIS BY MARINES



Petaluma, Calif.—A population of over six millions was revealed in a recent census of this town. Hens, y'understand, not folks. So the town named itself "The Egg Basket of the World." At a recent celebration these 6 million hard-working biddies were honored for their industry, which has brought a flood of gold into the greatest chicken center in the world.

The boosters said they found only one egg that didn't do 'em credit. So with the help of a bunch of Marine Recruiters from 320 Market street, San Francisco, who were there on the trail of good men, escorted this disreputable Humpty Dumpty out of town on a cart, as the picture shows.

FRANCE TO REPAY WAR LOAN OCT. 15

$150,000,000 Cash and Rest in French Bonds

New York.—French Government arrangements for repayment of its half of the $500,000,000 Anglo-French loan due October 15, including public issue of $100,000,000 of French Government bonds underwritten by an American syndicate and $150,000,000 in cash and gold arriving from France, were made public September 6. The statement said:

"Maurice Casenave, Minister Plenipotentiary, Director-General of the French services in the United States, and Jean Parmeter, special financial envoy from France to the United States, announce the French Government has arranged for the repayment of $250,000,000, being its one-half of the Anglo-French loan due October 15, 1920. Of this amount approximately $150,000,000 is to be taken care of by funds already in hand and by gold shipments from France. The remainder will be provided by a public issue of $100,000,000 of bonds of the French Government to be underwritten by a syndicate now being formed by J. P. Morgan & Company."

War Losses and Gains.

The arrival in New York harbor of a German dreadnaught, a cruiser and several torpedo boat destroyers, relics of the once puissant imperial German navy, constituting America's share of the former Kaiser's sea establishment, directs attention to the shipping gains and losses of the United States in the world war.

Statistics just made public in New York indicate that the losses totaled 343,000 gross tons of merchant shipping from August, 1914, until the armistice. Compared to the seagoing tonnage of over 11,000,000 represented by the 3000 vessels now comprising the American merchant marine, the loss of 343,000 tons through enemy attack no longer looms large.

But this lost tonnage equaled the total output of United States shipyards in pre-war days. It exceeded the tonnage built in the United States in either 1915 or 1916. However, in 1917, responding to world demand, American shipbuilding struck its stride. Despite the sinking of 71,000 tons that year and the loss of 159,000 tons in other ways, the increased output more than made good those losses. American ship production in 1917 totaled 1,034,296 tons.

In one year alone, ending June 30, 1918, American ships sunk by the Germans totaled 180,000 tons. On the other hand, the American merchant marine was a gainer through the seizure of German ships of a total of 591,747 gross tons. These were vessels in United States ports when the United States entered the war against the power of imperial Germany.—Salt Lake Tribune.

AUSTRALIA INVADES DRIED FRUIT MARKET

1080 Boxes of Sultana Raisins Arrive on Way to New York City

San Francisco.—Dried fruit exporters of Australia are planning to compete against California products with Australian dried fruits in the American markets, it was revealed when the steamer Marama from New Zealand arrived here with a consignment of 1080 boxes of Sultana raisins destined for New York consumption.

According to Peter J. Duffy, local importer and exporter, who returned on the Marama after several months spent in the Antipodes, this is the first time a shipment of dried fruits has been sent from Australia to this country. Australian dried fruit merchants, he said, are planning to invade the American market with their products.

California apples, according to Duffy, are now selling in Australia for $6.50 a box, while the Australians can sell their apples in America for less than half that figure.

Duffy pointed out that the climatic fact that it is summer in Australia when it is winter in this country will aid the Australians tremendously in their new venture.

WOOL CLOTH PRICES CUT 20 PER CENT

New York.—An approximate cut of 20 per cent in wool cloth prices by the American Woolen Company was noted at the company's opening of its fall exhibit September 9, according to the Textile World Journal. The cut, said to be less than anticipated by the trade, was attributed to little demand for woolen goods.

San Francisco.—The funeral of 10-year-old Thelma Lee, who was shot and killed by Paul Nelson three days ago while on her way to school, was held September 9 at her San Bruno home. Classmates from the public school acted as escorts. Much sympathy has been aroused in the community over the slaying of the little child. Cause for the murder, it is believed by the police, was a fancied grievance against Mrs. Sina Lee, the child's mother. After shooting the girl Nelson committed suicide. Mrs. Lee is destitute of funds and organizations in San Bruno have been contributing towards her support.

Sacramento.—A California State Fair ticket, issued in 1865, September 8 was honored at the 1920 State Fair. The ticket was presented by James McDonald of Sacramento. McDonald's father was the original purchaser of the ticket.

CONVICTION, UPHELD, TABOOS PRIVATE STILL

San Francisco.—A person has no right to make or ferment mash in any place but an authorized distillery, according to a decision of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, September 6, which upheld the conviction of Mrs. L. Doan of Seattle, Washington.

Mrs. Doan was arrested and charged with distilling without filing a bond with the Collector of Internal Revenue; not filing notice with the collector that she intended to distill, and having mash in her possession. The first two counts were dismissed. She was tried on the latter charge and convicted.

EACH SECRET SOUL

The quiet houses in the village street
Turn to me all their windows, like grave eyes
Filled with a moment's curious surmise
If I shall stay with them my alien feet,
Or pass between them, without pause or name,
To the unseen horizons whence I came.

I pass and am forgotten! But my heart
Is filled with dreams of them. Tumult or peace—
The quest of consummation or release—
Anguish or shame, or rapture—for their part?
Or should I find in them, could I divine
Each secret soul, the loneliness of mine?

CALOMEL TODAY, SICK TOMORROW

Dose of nasty calomel makes you sick and you lose a day's work.

Calomel salivates! It's mercury. Calomel acts like dynamite on a sluggish liver. When calomel comes into contact with sour bile it crashes into it, causing cramping and nausea.

If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents, which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

If you take calomel today you'll be sick and nauseated tomorrow; besides it may salivate you, while if you take Dodson's Liver Tone you will wake up feeling great, full of ambition and ready for work or play. It's harmless, pleasant and safe to give to children; they like it.—Adv.

The Last Resort

In old England the following story admirably illustrates the industrial situation: Two miners were discussing the minimum wage.

"Say, Bill," said the first, "what's this 'ere minimum wage?"

Bill spat. "The minimum wage? That's what we gets for goin' down, an' if we wants ter make any more brass, we goes and does some work for it."—London Morning Post.

MR. ROOSTER'S ADVICE

IT WAS raining very fast and all the hens and chickens were sitting under the bushes at one corner of the yard waiting for the rain to be over, for each knew the worms would then be easier to find.

Old Mr. Rooster was watching with the rest of the family. He had lived at the farm longer than the others and so was considered very wise and was very much respected.

The hens taught their chicks to look upon old Mr. Rooster as their protector and as one to be listened to in all things.

When the rain was over young Mrs. Hen jumped up to scratch for worms before the others came from under the bushes.

She was lucky enough to get a very large one the first scratch, but before she had it dragged from the ground out ran all the others and began to tug and pull until in the end no one got the worm.

"Now, what a silly family I have," thought old Mr. Rooster, who had not run with the others. "All so greedy that not one of them had a bite. I must talk to them and tell them how silly they are."

In spite of the worms, when Mr. Rooster called his family they all came running to see what he wanted.

"I want to give you some advice," he said, "the worms will be very thick after the rain and easy to find, but when one of you gets a very large one I have noticed that all the others run and try to get it and in the end no one has anything to show for the struggle.

"Now, my advice is that each one of you scratch for yourself and let your neighbor alone, even if he or she has a larger worm than you have, for if you drop the one you have found someone will come along and eat it and in the end you will be the loser."

Mr. Rooster strutted away feeling that he had done his family a great service and looking very important and wise.

All the fowl looked after him and no one moved until old Mrs. Hen said: "I wonder if old Mr. Rooster really meant what he said: I never saw any of our family that would not grab a big worm when it had a chance," and off she ran, followed by all the others, for they well knew that old Mrs. Hen knew just where to look for the finest worms.

Now, it happened the old Mr. Rooster saw them all running and he saw Mrs. Hen ahead, so he, too, ran to see what was going on.

When they reached Mrs. Hen she was pulling from the wet earth a very fine large worm and every hen and chicken dashed to her side, but before anyone got a piece old Mr. Rooster flew over their heads with outspread and flapping wings.

He landed right in the midst of the struggling fowl and before old Mrs. Hen could collect her wits Mr. Rooster had the big worm in his beak and was running away.

Of course, no one saw him eat it and later all he said was that every time he saw a struggle he should take the worm, but he did not say what he should do with it.

"He ate it, my dears," said old Mrs. Hen. "I am sure of it, and he will take every one we find if he sees it, so we better be careful."

There was no more quarreling among Mr. Rooster's family after that, and as he walked around the yard he said to himself, "You have to use force when they will not listen to reason, but that certainly was a fine, plump worm."

Beauty Chats

By ELLA KENT FORBES

THE EARS

SEVERAL women have asked how to overcome protruding ears in half grown children, and several how to overcome such defects in themselves. One correspondent—in this case a man—wrote—

"The boys called me 'bunny' and 'rabbit' at school, my ears stuck out so, and because one tooth was out beyond the others. A dentist pulled this and inserted a smaller crown, in proper alignment. But the ears still stand out and make any face stupid looking, and homely. I am thirty years old now, and think it is too late to have my ears placed properly. Can you advise me, however?"

The ears are always more or less flexible, and if, through carelessness or ignorance on the part of the mother the baby's ears are allowed to protrude, the grown person can only do what the mother should have done. That is, bind the ears close to the head, and let them stay so all night. How many months it will take before the ears lie close to the head of themselves, I cannot say, for this depends upon the flexibility of the muscles, and the person's age. It is a simple treatment however, and should be tried by every one with outstanding ears. For they will give the suggestion of stupidity and even degeneracy, to the brightest of faces.

Now about exercises—

The best of all breathing exercises is the old Yogi method of filling first the lower part of the lungs, then the middle part, and lastly the upper part, holding the breath a few seconds, letting it out slowly. The manner in which the air is brought into the body exercises certain inner muscles, that directly affect the health for good. The best exercises for arms and legs are the setting up exercises used in the army and navy. Any recruiting station, or any enlisted man can give you these.

Parasite That Attacks Both Cedar and Apple Tree With Bad Results

"It may seem strange that a parasite shoud attack the stems and leaves of the cedar and produce these tumor-like growths, but this is only one-half of the story," says Frank D. Kern, writing of the parasite known as "Cedar Apples," in Boys' Life. "The other half is the climax of strangeness. The parasite leads a 'double life.' In its other stage it lives on the apple tree, chiefly affecting the leaves, but sometimes the fruit. Wild crab apples and cultivated apples are both affected. The apple grower speaks of is as 'orchard rust,' and on the apple it produces an entirely different effect. From its appearance one would never suspect its relation to the 'cedar apples.' Yellowish or reddish spots first appear on the apple leaves. On the upper side of these spots small dots develop and later become blackish. On the under side of the leaves delicate feathery projections develop. In the fall, winter and spring, the parasite lives on the cedar. It goes back and forth by means of tiny 'germs' known as spores, which are carried by the wind. This history of the parasite suggests that it would find conditions best where cedars and apples grow close together, and such is the case. On the apple this rust is a serious disease in some localities. The best method of prevention is the destruction of the cedars in the vicinity. It is not likely that the wind will carry the spore for more than a few miles. The state of West Virginia has a law regarding the destruction of cedars near apple orchards. The parasite does not spread from apple to apple nor from cedar to cedar. Some varieties of apples resist the attacks better than others. I have seen Stayman Winesaps practically untouched when Grimes Golden in the same orchard were badly affected."

Taking After Mother

Bert just came home from college and he had a "shadow" on his upper lip. He stopped to say "Hello" to his grandfather.

His grandfather looked him over and said: "Why, son, you look more like your mother every day."

"What makes you think so?" asked Bert.

"Why, because your father had a mustache that came down to his chin. Just look at that one of yours; you must take after your mother."—Indianapolis Journal.

Lift off Corns!

Doesn't hurt a bit and Freezone costs only a few cents.

With your fingers! You can lift off any hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the hard skin calluses from bottom of feet.

A tiny bottle of "Freezone" costs little at any drug store; apply a few drops upon the corn or callus. Instantly it stops hurting, then shortly you lift that bothersome corn or callus right off, root and all, without one bit of pain or soreness. Truly! No humbug.

The Political Religion of America

Written 80 Years Ago By Abraham Lincoln

I know the American people are much attached to their Government; I know they would suffer much for its sake; I know they would endure evils long and patiently before they would ever think of exchanging it for another; yet notwithstanding all this, if the laws be continually despised and disregarded, if their rights to secure in their persons and property are held by no better tenure than the caprice of a mob, the alienation of their affections from the Government is the natural consequence and to that, sooner or later, it must come. Here then is one point at which danger may be expected.

The question recurs: How shall we fortify against it? The answer is simple. Let every American, every lover of liberty, every well-wisher to his posterity, swear by the blood of the Revolution never to violate in the least particular the laws of the country, and never to tolerate their violation by others. As the patriots of '76 did to the support of the Constitution and laws, let every American pledge his life, his property and his sacred honor. Let every man remember that to violate the law is to trample on the blood of his father and to tear the charter of his own and his children's liberty. Let reverence for the laws be breathed by every American mother to the lisping babe that prattles on her lap; let it be taught in schools, in seminaries, in colleges; let it be written in primers, spelling books and in almanacs; let it be preached from the pulpit, proclaimed in legislative halls, and enforced in courts of justice. And, in short, let it become the political religion of the nation; and let the old and the young, the rich and the poor, the grave and the gay of all sexes and tongues and colors and conditions sacrifice unceasingly upon its altars.

Wood Construction Resists California Earthquakes

Recent earthquakes in California have turned the attention of the nation generally to this type of misfortunes and its results. In a general discussion of these earth tremors in the Scientific Monthly, Dr. Andrew H. Palmer has this to say with respect to the suitability of various types of construction to such conditions:

"Steel frame and re-enforced concrete buildings will stand through a severe earthquake. Wooden buildings, too, will remain unharmed in destructive shocks, since they will yield to strains. Brick and concrete-block buildings are easily destroyed. But the most dangerous type of construction is the primitive adobe, which is still in use among Mexicans and Indians."

Changed Policy Needed

The 600 producing oil companies of California should be encouraged in every way possible to proceed with their work of development and exploration, states Southern Pacific News Bureau. True enough. But the big trouble has been prohibited, suspended or discouraged. Upon liberal interpretation of the new Federal leasing law depends much in the way of possible production to help relieve the shortage here on the coast and encourage new oil development in various western states.

Old Bill Balch, to the polls he goes,
And there he plays the whole derned string;
On all the measures he votes noes,—
And he does, by heck, the proper thing.

We Americans have the opportunity of learning how Bolshevism and ultra Communism will result, without material damage in case the experiments turn out badly. It will be a long time before ultimate results are reached. In the meantime, we're doing pretty well, thank you.

In ancient times, so stories run;
Some hungry Chinese ran upon
A burned-down house and roasted shoat,
Whose luscious pickings got their goat.
They builded houses then like sin,
And slaughtered porkers placed therein,
To furnish forth a barbecue.
Uneasy soul, maybe that you
Are dancing Oriental jigs,
And burn the house to roast your pig.

HOME SERVICE FOR EVERYBODY IN NEED

Do you know what the present day Home Service of the American Red Cross is?

Many people do not know that, besides completing the work for ex-service men, especially the disabled, it provides the same neighborly service to families in general that it formerly gave families of soldiers, sailors and marines.

"Home Service covers a wide and varied field," says Frederick C. Munroe, general manager of the American Red Cross. "It gives aid to families in solving such problems as budget planning, marketing, through times of financial stress, keeping children in school, helping crippled children, widowed and deserted mothers, children backward in school and children in conflict with the laws. It renders service to the homeless and transient, to the illiterate, to tenement dwellers, to the unemployed, and gives friendly assistance and advice to foreign speaking groups."

In addition to helping families in the solution of their own problems, Home Service helps in strengthening the weak spots in the social life of communities. It joins hands with others to make communities safer, healthier and happier.

Organizing action along lines in which the community is already interested is one of the objects of Home Service. It has established community meetings, patriotic celebrations, pageants and picnics. Rest rooms, recreation facilities, play supervisors and moving pictures have been provided. Through Home Service other agencies are influenced to bring about improved commercial amusements and better school facilities and to promote traveling libraries as well as to secure county agricultural and home demonstration agents.

If you need assistance at any time, go to the secretary of the nearest Red Cross chapter and describe the situation. Your confidence will be sacredly respected and every possible effort will be made to aid you.

American Red Cross Roll Call.

The Fourth Annual Roll Call of the American Red Cross will be held this year from Armistice Day, November 11, to Thanksgiving Day, November 25, inclusive. During this period the men and women of the United States will pay their annual dues and renew their membership.

THE REAL TROUBLE.

"Uncle Johnberry declares that public matters are a heap more complicated and the outlook a whole lot more hopeless than ever before," related the gaunt Missourian. "He says he knows such is the case b-cuz it used to be that he could go over to old Tod Gentbacker's after supper and settle everything by nine o'clock, but now they seldom get through before ten o'clock or half past. But what really is the matter is that Uncle Johnberry is slipping. The country isn't going to the dogs any more than it has always been, and the dogs are just as agile in keeping ahead of it as they ever were. It is Uncle Johnberry that is slowly but surely falling behind."
—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Honking your horn doesn't help so much as steering wisely.
